

Charles Dickens's

A Christmas Carol

Adapted by Kevin P. Kern

Performance Rights

It is an infringement of the federal copyright law to copy or reproduce this script in any manner or to perform this play without royalty payment. All rights are controlled by Eldridge Publishing Co., Inc. Contact the publisher for additional scripts and further licensing information. The author's name must appear on all programs and advertising with the notice: "Produced by special arrangement with Eldridge Publishing Company."

ELDRIDGE PUBLISHING COMPANY

hiStage.com

© 2014 by Kevin P. Kern

Download your complete script from Eldridge Publishing
<https://95church.com/charles-dickenss-a-christmas>

A Christmas Carol

- 2 -

DEDICATION

*For Natalie, Sander, Aidan, and Elisa;
the four greatest gifts I was ever given.*

SYNOPSIS

Ebenezer Scrooge is a cold-hearted miser, choosing to spend Christmas Eve alone instead of with his cheerful nephew, Fred. That night, he is visited by his old colleague, Jacob Marley, who explains that three ghosts will come. After seeing his Christmas Past, Present, and Future, Scrooge awakens with renewed faith. In his redemption, he embraces family and friends and gives generously, forever changed. Following the story of Charles Dickens's A Christmas Carol, this unique version incorporates a narrator, traditional carols, and continuous action on the stage. A flexible case size and ease of doubling can accommodate between 14-36 actors. Full evening.

ORIGINAL PRODUCTION

The Golden Performing Arts Center at the Madrid Theatre, Canoga Park, CA

CAST OF CHARACTERS

*(11 m, 10 w, 3 boys, 12 flexible.
With doubling 4 m, 3 w, 1 boy, 6 flexible.)*

NARRATOR

CAROLERS 1-4: Singing narrators.

A BOY: A school-age boy who follows Scrooge's directions.

ADULTS 1-3: Townspeople who attempt to cheer Scrooge.

SCROOGE: A cold-hearted miser who finds redemption.

FRED: Scrooge's cheerful nephew.

CHARITY 1 & 2: Two townspeople who seek a donation.

BOB CRATCHIT: Scrooge's faithful employee.

JACOB MARLEY: Scrooge's late partner; wears tattered clothing and chains.

CHRISTMAS PAST: Wears white, is childlike in appearance.

FAN: Scrooge's sister.

YOUNG SCROOGE: Ebenezer as a schoolboy.

FEZZIWIG: Scrooge's first employer.

MRS. FEZZIWIG: Mr. Fezziwig's happy wife.

SCROOGE at 20: A happier, younger Scrooge.

BELLE: Mr. and Mrs. Fezziwig's daughter, loves Scrooge.

CHRISTMAS PRESENT: Wears a great robe.

MRS. CRATCHIT: Mr. Cratchit's wife.

BELINDA: Mr. and Mrs. Cratchit's daughter.

MARTHA: Mr. and Mrs. Cratchit's daughter.

PETER: Mr. and Mrs. Cratchit's son.

TIM: Mr. and Mrs. Cratchit's sickly son.

JANE: Fred's wife.

TOPPER: Friend to Fred and Jane.

ALICE: Friend to Fred and Jane.

CHRISTMAS FUTURE: Nonspeaking.

MR. PENNYROYAL: A man selling Scrooge's silver.

MRS. DILBER: A woman selling Scrooge's bed curtains.

JOE: Shopkeeper who accepts these wares.

THOMAS: Indebted to Scrooge.

CAROLINE: Thomas's wife.

EXTRAS as townspeople and children.

PRODUCTION NOTE

This adaptation was intended to allow for a wide variety of scenic elements, from the lavish to the sparse. In the original production, the Carolers were able to shift most of the scenery while singing. While this is certainly a fun and engaging option, it's not crucial. If the set pieces are too big and unwieldy, the Carolers can musically cover the shift with a wide selection of carols. There should be no modern carols, but beyond that, great flexibility is given to the Director and Music Director to determine what music is incorporated into the show. Action is continuous.

SUGGESTED MUSIC

God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen
Adam Lay Y-bounden
Coventry Carol
Lo! How a Rose e'er Blooming
Deck the Halls
Noel Nouvelet!
Good King Wenceslas
Gloucestershire Wassail
Tomorrow Shall be my Dancing Day
O Come, All Ye Faithful
I Saw Three Ships
Hark! The Herald Angels Sing
We Wish you a Merry Christmas

ACT I
Prologue

(In the darkness: CAROLERS sing, "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen." The NARRATOR, a well-to-do Dickensian character enters the space with a fine walking stick.)

NARRATOR: Tonight, we will endeavor, in this ghostly little story to give rise to the ghost of an idea. Let nothing you see tonight frighten you, or alarm you, or upset you. But rather, let it make you ponder this question: What would it take to make you understand the true meaning of Christmas? (The NARRATOR moves to his writing desk where he will remain for a better part of the evening.)

(The LIGHTS rise on a Dickensian street scene. It becomes a bustling affair; CHILDREN playing, SHOPPERS carrying packages, WORKERS tending their shops, and the like. The CAROLERS move through the space, now singing to the denizens of London. LIGHTS return to the narrator's desk.)

NARRATOR: It is fitting that during this season, we return to stories of our youth. For it is in those stories, remembered from our childhood, that we understand our own humanity and how we became the people that we are. And so, I offer this tale that I remember from when I was just a small boy. It is one part ghost story, one part love story, and one part...well...extraordinary.

Scene 1

(SCROOGE, a drably dressed figure appears upstage and interrupts a children's game. A CHILD inadvertently bumps into this man.)

CHILD ONE: Sorry, sir. Merry Christmas!

SCROOGE: Humbug!

ADULT ONE: A humbug! But it's Christmas, sir...

A Christmas Carol

- 6 -

SCROOGE: Is that any reason to be assaulted by a common criminal?

ADULT TWO: But (s)he's only a child, sir...

SCROOGE: That, my good woman, is her fault, your problem, and none of my concern. Good day.

ADULT THREE: What a terrible man! Who was he?

FRED: I'm afraid that terrible man was, for better or worse, my dear uncle, Ebenezer Scrooge.

ADULT THREE: Oh, I'm terribly sorry...

FRED: (Trying to make light of this matter.) For him or for me?

ADULT THREE: No, I meant...

FRED: No harm done. My uncle has given me hours of merriment, though he seems to take none for himself. Merry Christmas!

ADULT THREE: Merry Christmas to you, sir.

(FRED runs after SCROOGE.)

FRED: Uncle Scrooge! Uncle Scrooge!

(SCROOGE sees FRED and flees. Street scene ACTORS exit, leaving only the CAROLERS.)

NARRATOR: And with that, you have made the acquaintance of Mr. Ebenezer Scrooge and his nephew, Fred. One of them is tight-fisted, wrenching, grasping, solitary, covetous old sinner, and the other is his nephew, Fred. Scrooge, having just concluded business at The King's Bench, was returning to the office of Marley and Scrooge.

(The CAROLERS underscore the scene shift with "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen." The stage is set for Scrooge's office. A large desk sits near the stove, and a smaller one contains hard-working BOB CRATCHIT. CHARITY ONE and CHARITY TWO intercept SCROOGE on his way into the office. They seem reasonable if a bit eager.)

End of Freeview

Download your complete script from Eldridge Publishing

<https://95church.com/charles-dickenss-a-christmas>

Eldridge Publishing, a leading drama play publisher since 1906, offers more than a thousand full-length plays, one-act plays, melodramas, holiday plays, religious plays, children's theatre plays and musicals of all kinds.

For more than a hundred years, our family-owned business has had the privilege of publishing some of the finest playwrights, allowing their work to come alive on stages worldwide.

We look forward to being a part of your next theatrical production.

Eldridge Publishing... for the start of your theatre experience!